RAILROAD UPHOLD IN TEST SUIT ON BOARD

CHICAGO, April 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Federal Judge George T. Page today upheld the Pennsylvania railroad in its suit to test the power of the United States railroad labor board by refusing to dismiss the temporary injunction recently granted by Judge Landis restraining the board from enjoining the road for violation of the board's decrees.

Judge Page, while refusing to dismiss the temporary injunction, ordered a conference of attorneys for both sides and the case probably will come up again later. The board ordered the road to hold new elections among its shop craft employees some time ago and the road refused to do so. The board then prepared to issue a decree enjoining the carrier and the Pennsylvania obtained the injunction to test the board's powers.

The shop crafts had charged that the employees' representatives who conferred with the road over proposed wage reductions were selected by the road itself and not by the employees. They claimed that the conference, therefore, were illegal and were upheld by the board.

The labor board has never claimed power to enforce its decrees, the enforcement being left, under the transportation act, to the moral responsibility placed on carriers and employees through the decisions of an impartial body. Its only power, it claimed, was to pressure publicly anybody violating its decrees, and it recently did this in connection with a small carrier road. The Pennsylvania maintained, however, that the board could not even enforce it.

Today's decision is not, of course, final in the case, but it came as a distinct shock to board members, they said as they had confidently expected that Judge Page would dismiss the temporary injunction and throw the case out of court.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR SEARS AND NICHOLS CANNING CO.

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—On application of the Whitaker-Glessner Company, Wheeling, W. Va., Judge John E. Sater in United States district court today appointed a receiver for the Sears and Nichols Canning Company of Chillicothe, Ohio, one of the largest food canning companies in the United States.

Harry McCord, vice president and sales manager for Sears and Nichols, was named receiver.

Heavy losses to wholesale grocers because of the deflation in values, forcing the company to carry large inventories on which it in turn sustained a shrinkage in declining prices caused the action, according to a statement issued by W. J. Sears, president of Sears and Nichols.

In its petition, the Whitaker-Glessner Company states that the Sears and Nichols company owes it approximately $111,000.

In filing the action for receivership, the Whitaker-Glessner company acted on behalf of other creditors. The statement by Mr. Sears said that more than 87 per cent of the creditors had agreed to the action, which followed a conference of creditors in Cleveland two days ago.

Mr. Sears' statement said:

"The balance sheet of the company as of March 1 shows the same to be abundantly solvent, with total assets of $4,814,000 and total current and deferred liabilities of $1,827,000 not including mortgage bonds of $1,000,000."

The Sears and Nichols Company has canning plants at nine towns in Ohio and at the following places outside of the state: New Castle, Ind.; Greenwood, Ind.; Dupont, Ind.; Springfield, Ill.; Mount City, Ill.; Pontwater, Mich.; Wickliffe, Ky.; Barlow, Ky.; Columbus, Ky.; and Arlington, Ky.

Battles For Life Fifty Feet Beneath Surface Of Puget Sound With Great Devil Fish

TACOMA, WASH., April 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Battling for his life fifty feet beneath the surface of Puget Sound, Walter McCray, a diver known in marine circles from Alaska to California, came out victorious here yesterday over a giant devil fish.

The monster wound his tentacles so tightly about McCray that the diver was unable to reach the knife he carries for protection. When one tentacle threatened to cut off the air supply, McCray through the submarine telephone called for a short steel wrecking bar. With this weapon he was able to pierce the body of the devil fish and at last, with man and monster still struggling desperately, McCray was drawn to the surface by his assistant and other men called to help.

While Richard Burnett, a dock watchman, stood by with drawn pistol, unable to shoot because the diver and devil fish were so completely tangled, others attacked with what weapons there were at hand, and finally the devil fish released its hold and disappeared beneath the water.

The devil fish was one of the largest ever seen in these waters, and was the first, McCray said, that ever attacked him.

McCray, who suffered chiefly from exhaustion, was prepared to resume diving today.

STRIKE BALLOT TO BE SENT TO 600,000 MEMBERS OF SHOP CRAFTS, SWITCHMEN

CHICAGO, April 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Grievance centering about the contract system employed by some railroads in the handling of repair work has resulted in a vote for distribution of strike ballots to the 600,000 members of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor. This department comprises the six federated shop crafts and the switchmen's Union of North America.

Counter Move To Crush Organization

Authorization for the strike ballots was voted at the sixth biennial convention of the department, which has been in session two weeks and which concluded its sessions today. The vote to send out the ballots was taken yesterday and officers declared that it was a counter move to an effort "to crush our organization completely."

"If there is a strike, and I feel sure our men will vote solidly, for it, it will be in protest of the action of railroads in ignoring decisions of the United States Railway Labor Board," said R. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees' department. "The railway board now has several complaints against the contract or farming out system pending. It has been expected that a decision would be rendered soon after the conclusion of the present wage hearings."

Defied Board, Chafed

"The carriers have arbitrarily reduced wages in defiance of the board," said Mr. Jewell. "They have restored the piece work system and resorted to the farming out system which is a mere subterfuge by which they dodge labor board decisions."

"A year ago our membership was overwhelmingly in favor of war in protest against the 12 per cent reduction already then announced and given effect last July. When the date came, however, we favored peace because of assurances given by the labor board that no further wage reductions would be considered for some time."

"But this time, I am sure, the issue will come to a showdown. So far as we are concerned, it is a fight for existence."

Known In 66 Days

Mr. Jewell said the wording of the strike ballots were not yet determined, but that the question was whether to strike or not to strike. He added that the ballots would be sent out soon and that there would be no delay should be known within sixty days.

Mr. Jewell charged that the roads are dodging the board's rulings by letting out shops to contractors who are not technically within the jurisdiction of the labor board.

There has been a strike for some time on the Western Maryland railway against the farming out of maintenance of way work.

ST. LOUIS, MO., April 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Two policemen were killed and one was wounded, critically, by bandits, who today held up the offices of Morris and Company here and escaped with a small amount of pay roll money. Levee Breaks; Farms Flooded

NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—(By the Associated Press)—A levee on the west bank of the Mississippi river at Myrtle Grove, about thirty miles south of New Orleans, broke today and neighboring plantations are being flooded. About sixty feet of the embankment went out and government barges with men and materials were sent from here to the scene of the break.

The section being inundated contains many important sugar plantations and orange groves. No information is available as to the area which will be affected in the event the break can not be mended.

The river at New Orleans early today showed a rise of three tenths of a foot, bringing the stage to 22.2 feet, four tenths of a foot higher than the record established in 1912.

DEATH TOLL IN GASOLINE EXPLOSION REACHES 5

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—Five deaths were reported early today in hospitals at Downey and Artesia, near here, as a result of the explosion yesterday morning of a gasoline tank and gasoline wagon, while scores were fighting a fire in a gasoline filling station at Downey. Five others seriously injured were reported in a critical condition.

The dead are: William C. Jarvis, Lancaster, Cal.; Walter H. Hulley, druggist, 57, Downey; Lester E. Johnson, student, 16, Downey; Edward Vandegrift, school, 58, Downey; Clyde Wierbach, clerk, 30, Downey.

The explosion followed an apparently harmless little fire in the house of the gasoline filling station. The fire alarm brought scores of high school students and townspeople. These were hurried in all directions some equipped in the light flames from more than a thousand gallons of gasoline.

The force of the explosion was felt for considerable distance and occasioned reports of a loss of a hundred lives, which, broadcast by telephone, brought ambulances and medical aid from Los Angeles and other nearby towns.

Property loss was limited to destruction of the gasoline filling station and gasoline truck.

Mercury Dropped To 22 In Some Localities

COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Serious damage that will cost the fruit growers of Ohio "hundreds of thousands of dollars" was done to the fruit crop in Ohio last night by a killing frost and freeze, according to estimates made today by the United States weather bureau and the Ohio department of agriculture.

Last night's heavy frost was practically as severe as the killing frost which ruined the Ohio fruit crop a year ago, the weather bureau announced. Last night's frost came just a year and one day after the disastrous frost of last year, which occurred on April 21.

As Low As 22 Degrees

Temperatures ranged as low as 22 degrees in some sections of the state. While all agricultural authorities at the state capital agreed this morning that the damage to fruit had been very great, early reports were so meager that an exact summary could not be made.

Northern Ohio Fruit Damaged

Reports from northern Ohio indicated that all early fruits had suffered, but that late fruits, which are not yet in bloom, did not suffer. Reports from that section indicated that a warm sun which quickly erased the white coating from tree branches and blossoms, had added to the frost damage.

Southern Ohio Hard Hit

Southern Ohio suffered most seriously from last night's killing frost, according to reports received today by L. J. Taber, state director of agriculture. Fruit growers in that section reported to Mr. Taber's office this morning that fifty per cent or more of the apple crop had been ruined.

Big damage also was done by the frost north of Columbus to the watershed. Mr. Taber said reports indicated, but between the watershed and Lake Erie indications are that the damage was not so severe.

Another Frost Predicted For Tonight

Another heavy frost was predicted for tonight in Ohio by the weather bureau, but announcement was made that tonight's frost will not be as severe as last night's. After tonight, the weather bureau predicted, there will be no further fear of frost, as warmer weather was predicted. The Ohio forecast issued this morning said:

Fair weather and slowly rising temperatures tonight and Sunday. Frost tonight.

The state department of agriculture, the United States department of crop estimates and the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation were busy here today obtaining and compiling reports of frost damage from various sections of the state. They declared that it would be late today or tomorrow before another definite general information as to the damage done would be available.

Did Not Ruin All The Fruit

While last night's frost was reported as unusually severe, and as an old-fashioned "black frost" in some sections, Director Taber, of the state department of agriculture, said he did not believe that it had succeeded in (Continued on Page Nine)

Damage To Fruit Here Is Reported Slight

This immediate section apparently has escaped any serious damage to its fruit crop, although County Farm Agent Walter Guba said that frost prevailed in this section last night and caused slight damage to the peach and cherry crops.

It was stated at his office that reports from various sections of the county indicated that damage to the fruit would be very slight.

charging non-support of his two minor children, he told Judge Thomas that he and his former wife had amicably settled their difference and were contemplating launching their back on the matrimonial seas again when the strong arm of the law reached out and interfered with the plans by taking him into custody Friday.

The former wife was in court and confirmed Hill's statement and this prompted the court to release the accused on his own recognizance to await results.

When Henry Barrett, arrested in Cleveland and returned here Friday night by Sheriff Rieker to meet an indictment charging him with non-support of his minor son, was arraigned in Common Pleas court Saturday and will stand trial. Harry Canter, West Third street man, denied guilt under an indictment for alleged non-support of his minor child when arraigned in Common Pleas court Saturday and will stand trial. Mrs. Skaggs Granted Divorce

Sarah Skaggs was granted a decree by Judge Thomas in common pleas court Saturday divorcing her from Thurman Skaggs, car repairer, at the N. & W. shops. The decree was granted on the ground of neglect and Skaggs was ordered to pay the costs of the suit and $25 to her attorney, B. V. Kimble.

They were married in June, 1920, and the hearing disclosed that trouble which grew out of disputes between the couple over their children by former marriages and which resulted in a separation three months later.

The wife claimed that Skaggs treated her with coldness and contempt and she testified that he told her he did not care anything about her and ordered her to leave.

Skaggs on the stand in his own behalf, complained that the wife abused and ill treated his children.

Wife Gets The Divorce

When Charles Squires, 1156 Eleventh street, N. & W. shop employee, admitted during the hearing of his suit for divorce in Common Pleas court Saturday that he was engaged to another woman named Verna Wilson, Judge Thomas promptly dismissed his petition and granted a decree for a divorce to his wife, Henrietta Squires of Marion on her cross petition and ordered Squires to pay her the sum of $5 a week alimony and $50 to pay her attorney, Louis E. Myers, of Marion.

Squires will have to postpone his marriage to the other woman as the court in granting the decree stated that the decree would not become effective for one year.

They were married in November, 1919, and the wife on the stand in her own behalf told the court that Squires had an outrageous temper and that during the thirteen months she lived with him a week seldom passed but what he assaulted and beat her, frequently blacking her eyes and on several occasions choked her, besides, she declared, he failed to properly support her and her three children by a former marriage. She claimed that when she went to Marion to visit relatives during the holidays in 1920 he sent her a railroad pass from Columbus to Portsmouth but refused to send her money to pay train fare from Marion to Columbus, some 45 miles, which she stated was too far to walk and explained that was the reason she had never returned.

Attorney George W. Sheppard for Squires and Attorney Louis E. Myers for the defendant.

Wife Files Answer

Answering the divorce suit of Carey Alexander, of Barden, Ada Alexander of Indianapolis, denies his charges and for cross petition filed through Attorney George W. Sheppard in Common Pleas court Saturday alleges that Alexander is quarrelsome and disagreeable, has called her vile names and mistreated her to the extent that her health was impaired, which compelled her to separate and live apart from him, she says. She asks that his petition be dismissed and that she may be granted the divorce and reasonable alimony.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Please answer this letter as soon as you receive it. My husband has two afflictions. He goes with a single woman, and I want you to tell me what I can do about it.

MRS. G. R.
You must be slipping when you let other women step in and take your place. If you were on the job all the time, he would not have a chance to go with any other woman. The only thing you can do now is to do up and win your husband away from them.

Dear Dolly—I am in love with a woman who is a very good worker both inside and outside her home. I am able to give this woman and her child a very good home, as I am a young man with a good position and pretty good habits. Dolly, please tell me how to gain her love as I think she is the best woman I have ever met. Someone told me she said she would never marry again, but I am going to try my best to win her. What shall I do about it? She divorced her first husband.

HIGH BRED.
If you are marrying her because she is a good worker, I would advise you not to push the matter. If she made a failure of the first venture, she is liable to make a failure of the second one.

Dear Dolly—I want your advice. I have been married five years and have a daughter two years of age. Dolly, my husband was good to me and treated me all right until he got an automobile and now he won't let me go any place with him. I understand he takes women with him every time he goes out for riding. Sometimes he comes home drunk and he says I can leave him if I don't like the way he is acting, and that I can't make him keep me. I am a good woman and everybody knows he is not true to me. What can be done with him for taking other women out and mistreating me? Can he take my baby from me? I am not able to work.

BROKEN-HEARTED WIFE.
He can't take your baby away from you, but he can be made to support you and your child even if he does not live with you. If I were you I would tell him that if he did not change his ways I would have him arrested for non-support. If he has to pay you a reasonable amount he won't have any left to squander on other women. The "chain gang" is the place for him, and if I were you I would see that he is placed at the head of it.

Dear Dolly—I am a school girl with blue eyes and chestnut brown hair. Do you think I am pretty enough for a boy?

OAK HILL GIRL.
I can't answer your question without seeing you or your picture. A girl may have pretty hair and eyes and yet not be good looking. However, no matter how lovely you are you will find some boy who will think you are pretty. Everybody doesn't see alike, you know.

Dear Dolly—If the party who called me up Wednesday night will call again between 5:30 and one they will get to talk to me. They got the wrong person the other time.

MISS CURIOSITY.
Minford—Dear Dolly—Will a child of five take milk out of a white cloth, and if so how is it to be used?

Miss Rosa Cox of Findlay street is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Burke (Lowell Holland) in Laurens.

A wedding marked by simple elegance occurred at half after eleven o'clock this morning at the handsome home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Daehler, 816 Eighth street, when their charming young daughter, Miss Florence A. Daehler, became the bride of Mr. Harold L. Hayes.

The impressive double ring service was used, and the ceremony performed by Rev. Samuel Lindenmeyer, pastor of the First Evangelical church, of which the bride is a devoted member. Only the immediate families and a few close friends witnessed the ceremony.

In preparation for the happy event the spacious rooms of the Daehler home gave evidence of the glad spring tide, with their lavish decorations of the choicest of spring flowers attractively arranged in tall silver and crystal vases and bowls, the flowers falling in graceful sprays. The front hall and stairway were also decorated with bowls of pink dogwood and sprays of spirea, the latter being entwined around the stairway. The flowers used in the decorations were white spirea, tulips, carnations, pink dogwood and crabapple blossoms, their various colors blending beautifully with the rainbow effect carried out in the costumes of the bridal party.

Before the triple windows in the large drawing-room, great masses of palms, ferns and smilax formed the background for the pretty improvised altar, before which the bride party was grouped for the ceremony. Lighted tapers placed at vantage points throughout the rooms added to the impressiveness of the occasion.

When the bride and groom, escorted by the bridesmaids, entered the drawing-room, preceding the ceremony Miss Genevieve Dupre played several appropriate airs on the piano. She was attired in a lavender organdie and wore a corsage of sweet peas.

The playing of Mendelssohn's wedding march at half-after eleven o'clock heralded the approach of the bride party, which was led by Kathryn and Jane Donaldson, attractive young nieces of the bride. Jane was attired in a fairy-like costume of yellow organdie, while Kathryn wore a dainty dress of green organdie. These two dainty little maids slowly wound their way down the front stairway, carrying exquisite long-handled art baskets filled with varicolored flowers, which they scattered in the pathway of the bride. They were followed by their mother, Mrs. Ralph Donaldson, only sister of the bride, who served as matron of honor. She looked charming in a pale pink organdie finished with a corsage of deep-pink roses. Miss Virginia Geisler, cousin of the bride, came next. She made a pretty picture in a salmon colored organdie with a corsage of pink roses. Miss Mildred Purdon, the maid of honor, wore a beautiful creation of blue organdie and a corsage of light pink roses.

The beautiful brunette bride was a lovely figure in her bridal gown of crisp white organdie, the bodice made of lace effect, and the skirt trimmed with ruffles of gros-grain ribbon finishing the overdress and panels. Her tulle veil was fashioned with a crown effect, and was held in place by a cluster of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a fragrant array of bride's roses arranged in a shower effect. The radiant young bride descended the stairs with her father, who gave her in marriage. They were joined at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Drew Leedom, the procession forming a pretty rainbow circle with the bride and groom as the center of attraction.

Members of the K. K. K. Club, of which the bride is a popular member, formed an aisle from the foot of the stairs to the improvised altar through which the bridal procession passed. Those forming the aisle included Misses Elsie Cranston, Emma Jenkins, Jessie Gibbs, Mrs. Richard Kendall, Mrs. Joseph Babcock, Mrs. Robert Townsend and Mrs. Carl Blankenmeyer (Edith West).

During the ceremony Miss Genevieve Dupre played "Hearts and Flowers," and while the guests were assembling Mrs. Vaughn Finney sang "Because" and "At Dawning." She was costumed in a frock of rose organdie.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held for the immediate families, during which the members of the K. K. K. Club served a dainty ice course. Mrs. Howard Graf and Miss Lillian Hayes, sisters of the groom, presided at the punch bowl. Out-of-town visitors included Earl Hayes of Wheeling, W. Va., Mrs. Lloyd Fetter and Mrs. Bertha Bruckman of Cincinnati.

Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Hayes left on a honeymoon trip through the East. Upon their return they will go to homekeeping in their own handsome Langdon, which has just been completed at 1007 Eighth street. Mrs. Hayes' traveling costume was a smart blue and gray tweed, with accessories to harmonize. The bride, who is one of the efficient teachers in the Massie school building, will continue her work until the end of the school term. Mrs. Hayes is a thoroughly charming and accomplished young lady. She is a graduate of the Portsmouth High School, of Ohio University at Athens, and also attended Miami University at Oxford. She is very popular among a large circle of friends and was given many complimentary parties previous to her marriage.

Mr. Hayes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Hayes of 1228 Sixth street and is a prosperous young man, being engaged in the brokerage business, with offices at 510 Fourth street. He is ambitious and progressive and is making his work a success.

The Frances Bader Guild of All Saints' Church will resume their meetings following the Lenten season, and the first session will be held Monday afternoon with Mrs. Robert L. Gilbert, 1224 Fourth street. A full attendance is requested.

of Philadelphia, who says nothing she could say for Taulde would be half good enough after the way this remarkable medicine has brought back her health.

"It is just glorious to have my health back, and in my opinion there is nothing I can say about Taulde would be half good enough," said Mrs. Alvah H. McCreary, 1521 Locust St., Philadelphia, Pa.

"For two years I had all the miserable and agonizing symptoms that go with a bad case of stomach trouble. Although I lived on the strictest kind of diet I suffered torture from indigestion and finally my whole system seemed to give way."

"I certainly know how to appreciate the wonderful blessing of good health and I have such confidence in Taulde that I wish it was in my power to put a bottle of it in the hands of every sick man, woman and child so that they might take it and get well and strong, as I have done."

Taulde is sold in Portsmouth by Fisher & Streich Pharmacy and by leading druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

Adventures Of The Twins

BY OLIVE ROBERTS-BARTON

There were cars to swing on (Nick liked them), and sand piles to dig in (Nancy liked that).

THE fifth of the Seven Valleys was called Playground Valley. When Nancy and Nick and the dove came to the top of the steep hill that led down into it, the dove said, "I know how it is going to be here. You'll want to try every swing and sliding board in the place, so there's no use of me staying. I'll fly ahead and wait for you patiently on the other side."

"But we don't have to stop, even if we'd like to," said Nancy. "We can shut our eyes and go straight ahead."

"No," said the dove sadly. "You think you will but you won't. These things are all magic and will attract you against your will. It's like the Five-and-ten-cent-store Mountain and the Valley of Uppity-Dogs. Goodbye now. All the advice I can give you is to watch that you don't lose your

BEGIN HERE TODAY

In the summer of 1914, Mark Sabre finds that he is estranged from his man sympathy and understanding with the sole exception of Lady Nona Tybar, an old sweetheart now unhappily married.

Sabre's prosaic and snobbish wife, Mabel, fails to understand her husband's poetic and whimsical temperament. In business he is undermined by a jealous associate in the firm of Fortune, East and Sabre, and a promised partnership is diverted from him to Twynning. At this point, Nona's life with Tybar becomes intolerable and she asks Sabre to take her away. War is declared and Sabre rushes to secure a commission. He speaks to Colonel Hattaway of the Plinks.

Sabre is denied the commission because of physical condition. Young Perch asks Sabre to persuade his (Perch's) mother to consent to him going to war and Sabre promises and tries to get Effie Bright to stay with her. Bright, however, doesn't take kindly to the plan.

Effie goes to Perch's. Young Perch joins the army. Tybar is a hero in the war. Sabre is again rejected, is laughed at by his wife, but he writes his troubles to Nona. Tybar. Nona writes to Sabre and her husband but her husband dopes up with back but writes to other women in the town.

Sabre meets Nona who tells him of Tybar's heartlessness in his letter. Summoned by Effie, Sabre, hears that young Perch was killed and Mrs. Perch dying, plays with her while she passes away.

Sabre eventually gets into the army. On his leave home he gets a cold reception from Mabel, and business partners and finds Effie, who is companion to his wife, is being killed by her.

Sabre's wife discharges Effie and Sabre is wounded. He's badly crippled but gets no sympathy from his wife.

Hapgood again visits Sabre. Finds him walking with a stick, his wife gone and Effie Bright, with a baby no wedding ring, no servants, and a desolate air about the place.

Sabre tells Hapgood he is a social outcast because of the suspicious conditions under which he is living in connection with Effie Bright, who has a war baby and has been taken into the Sabre home against his wife's wish. Mabel has gone to her father's and the servants have all been dismissed.

Hapgood finds Sabre at Brighton for a couple of days rest. His wife has divorce papers served on him there. A man, Effie, him in a carriage, and he is asked to be his bride. He said the man, Effie, him in a carriage, and he is asked to be his bride.

Effie Bright kills her baby and commits suicide while Sabre is away and Sabre is brought back for the inquest. He is on trial before the coroner, and Twynning, the arch conspirator, and a hunchback lawyer, are about to fix the whole blame for the child and suicide on Sabre.

At the inquest Sabre is so worked up that he all but incriminates himself. Twynning and his hunchback lawyer, old Hump, are jubilant because they believe they can fasten the crime on Sabre.

Sabre is brought in at the inquest and loses control of himself. "Look here," is about all that can be gotten out of him. The jury condemns him in its verdict. Lady Nona Tybar appears as Twynning is testifying and calls him a liar. Sabre will not allow either Nona or Hapgood to leave her. He goes home and returns to Fortune, East and Sabre's office in a frenzy.

Sabre goes home, looks for a cigar, and finds that he has not got his case but remembers that Effie had told him he would find things he lost in the clock. Looks there and finds it and also a note from Effie telling him that Harold Twynning is the father of her little baby. He rushes to the office and discovers Twynning in deep grief. He has just heard that his son, Harold, has been killed. He shouts to drop Effie's letter in the fire.

He stopped his swinging arm, holding his hand above the flames. "He that dwelleth in love dwellth in God and God in him; for God is love." He opened his fingers, and the crumpled letter fell and was consumed. He pushed himself up from the mantelpiece and turned and went over to Twynning and stood over him again. He patted Twynning's heaving shoulders. "There, there, Twynning. Don't luck. Bad luck. Hard. Hard. Dear up. Twynning. Soldier's death. . . . Finest death. . . . Died for his country. . . . Fine boy. . . . Soldier's death. . . . Bad luck. . . . Bad luck. Twynning. . . .

Twynning, inarticulate, pushed up his hand and felt for Sabre's hand and clenched it and squeezed it convulsively.

Sabre said again, "There, there, Twynning. Hard. Hard. Fine death. . . . Brave boy. . . . He disengaged his hand and turned and walked very slowly from the room.

He went along the passage, past Mr. Fortune's door towards that which had been his own, still walking very slowly and with his hand against the wall to steady himself. He felt deathly ill. . . .

He went into his own room, unentered by him for many months now. His room no more, and he dropped heavily into the familiar chair at the familiar desk. He put his arms out along the desk and laid his head upon them. Oh, cumulative touch! He began to be shaken with onsets of emotion, as with sobbs. Oh, cumulative touch!

The communicating door opened and Mr. Fortune appeared. He stared at Sabre in astounded indignation. "Sabre! You here! I must say—I must admit—"

Sabre clenched his dry and terrible sobbing. He turned stiffly to Mr. Fortune and put his hand on the arm of the chair to rise.

A curious look came upon his face. He said, "I say, I'm sorry. I'm sorry. I—I can't get up."

Mr. Fortune boomed, "Can't get up?"

"I say—No. I say, I think something's happened to me. I can't get up."

The door opened. Hapgood came in, and Nona.

Sabre said, "I say, Hapgood—Nona—Nona! I say, Nona, I think something's happened to me. I can't get up."

A change came over his face. He collapsed back in the chair.

"Marko! Marko!"

She who thus cried ran forward and threw herself on her knees beside him, her hands stretched up to him.

Hapgood turned furiously on Mr. Fortune. "Go for a doctor! Go like hell! Sabre! Sabre! old man!"

"Hemorrhage on the brain!" said the doctor. "Well, if there's no more effusion of blood, you quite understand me. I say if there isn't any more, he's been through any kind of strain."

"Trouble," said Hapgood. "Strain. He's been in hell—right in."

When he was removed and they had left him, Nona said to Hapgood as they came down the steps of the County Hospital. "There was a thing he was so fond of, Mr. Hapgood."

"What?"

"If winter comes, can Spring be far behind?"

"It comes to me now. There must be a turning now. It he dies. . . . still a turning."

CHAPTER VIII

HAPGOOD across the coffee cups, the paper glasses and the cigarettes, wagged a solemn head at that friend of his, newly returned from a long visit to America. He wagged a solemn head:

"She's got her divorce, that wife of his."

"I've told you in my letters how he went on after that collapse, that Brady hemorrhage. I told you we got Ormond (live on to him, live was a friend of that Lady Tybar. She was with Sabre all the time. Pretty well every day I'd look in. Every day Ormond (live would come. Time and again we'd stand around the bed, we three—watching. Impenetrable and extraordinary business! There was his body, alive, breathing. His mind, his consciousness, his ego, his self, his whatever you like to call it—gone. Away. Absent. Not in that place."

"Yesterday Ormond (live said Sabre might be cautiously approached about things. For three weeks past (live's not let me see or that Lady Tybar—see him. Yesterday we were permitted again; and I took steps to be there first. You know your wife's divorced you, old man? He said pathetically, 'Yes, I know. I remember that.'"

"Of course it will come back to him in time that the business hadn't happened before his illness. In time he'll begin to scrape after detailed recollection, and he'll begin to realize that he never did go through it and that it must have happened while he was ill. There'll be another thing, too. He'll find his wife has married again. Yes, fact! I heard in a roundabout way that she's going to marry an old neighbor of theirs, chap called Major Miller. Hapgood (live Miller, old Sabre used to call him. However, that's not the thing that will have happened and will make him think God. What do I mean? With that, telling, and I don't feel it's quite undue to tell. Tell you what, you come around and have a look at the old chap tomorrow. I dare say he'll be on the road towards it by then and perhaps tell me himself."

Sabre was sitting propped up in bed awaiting who next might come. The nurse had told him he was to have visitors that morning.

The door opened and one came in, Nona.

She said to him, "Marko!"

He had no reply that he could make.

She slipped off a fur that she was wearing and came and sat down beside him. She was what he would have thought of as a find of a wicker thing, cut like his own waistcoat but short, and opened above like a waistcoat but turned back in a white fluted edging, revealing all her throat. She had a little close-fitting but buttoned with flowers and a loose velvet dependant from it. She put back the velvet dependant and in her face as she sat within the rose, Hapgood found subtle and, as perfume deeply in bailed, her serene and tender beauty penetrated Sabre's senses, propped up, watching her. He had something to say to her.

"How long is it since I have seen you, Nona?"

"It's a month since I was here, Marko."

"I don't remember it."

"You've been very ill; oh, so ill."

He said slowly, "Yes, I think I've been down in a pretty deep place."

"You're going to be splendid now, Marko."

"IT GRIEVES ME, MARKO," SHE SAID. "BUT I UNDERSTAND."

He did not respond to her tone. He said, "I've come on a lot in the last few weeks. I'd an idea you'd been about me before that. I'd an idea you'd be coming again. There's a thing I've been thinking out to tell you."

She breathed, "Yes, tell me, Marko."

But he did not answer.

She said, "I have been thinking, in these weeks, while you've been coming on, what you are going to do?"

His hands, that had been crumpling up the sheet, were now laid flat before him. His eyes, that had been regarding her, were now averted from her, fixed ahead. "There is nothing I can do. In the way you mean."

She was silent a little time.

"Marko, we've not talked at all about the greatest thing—of course they've told you—the Armistice, the war won. England, your England that you loved so, at peace, victorious; these dark years done. England her own again. Your dear England, Marko."

He said, "It's no more to do with me. Frightful things have happened to me. Frightful things."

She went on, "There's your book—your 'England.' You have that to go to now. And all your plans—do you remember telling me all your plans? Such splendid plans. And first of all your 'England' that you loved so welling so."

He said, "I can't be. It can't be. It's begun again to speak. He said, 'I don't want to hear those things. They have nothing to do with me.'"

He then crossed himself and spoke and had a firmness in his voice. "And I'll tell you this," he said, "This was what I said I had to tell you. When you go, you are not to return. I don't want to see you again."

She drew a breath, a sad sigh, her lips, "Why not, Marko?"

"Because what's been has been. Done. I've been through frightful things. They're on me still. They always will be on me. But from everything that belongs to them I want to get right away. And I'm going to."

"What are you going to do?"

"I don't know. Only get right away."

She got up. "Very well, I understand. She turned away. 'I grieve me, Marko. But I understand. I've always understood you.' She turned again and came close to him. "That's what you're going to do. Do you know what I'm going to do?"

He shook his head. He was breathing deeply.

"I'm going to do what I ought to have done the minute I came into the room. I hadn't quite the courage. This."

She suddenly stopped over him. She encircled him with her arms and slightly raised him to her. She put her lips to his and kissed him and held him so.

"You are never going to leave me, Marko. Never, never, never, till death."

He cried, "Beloved, beloved," and clung to her. "Beloved, beloved," and clung to her. . . .

Farmer's Wife Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a Well Woman

Carters Creek, Tenn. — "Three years ago I was almost an invalid. I spent half of my time in bed, being afflicted with a trouble which women of a certain age are apt to have. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a well woman now and have been for two years. I can work as well as any one who is younger and as I am a farmer's wife I have plenty to do for I cultivate my own garden, raise many chickens and do my own housework. You may publish this letter as I am ready to do anything to help women as I have been so well and happy since my troubles are past. — Mrs. E. T. Galloway, Carters Creek, Tenn.

Most women find plenty to do. If they are upset with some female ailment and troubled with such symptoms as Mrs. Galloway had, the smallest duty seems a mountain. If you find it hard to keep up, if you are nervous and irritable, without ambition and out of sorts generally, give the Vegetable Compound a trial.

SCANDAL

Scandal is the leading of another into serious sin by the influence of bad example. This is the murder of the neighbor's soul. It is a terrible crime to kill the life of the body. But to cause another to offend God, and thus lose the grace of God is to produce the death of the soul. Scandal is the worst kind of murder. He that shall scandalize one of those little ones that believe in Me, it were better for him that a mill-stone should be hanged about his neck and that he should be drowned in the depth of the sea. Matt. 18:6. Pride, selfishness, drunkenness and irreligion are the most frequent causes of sins against the fifth commandment.

Mayor Minshall Vetoes Daylight Saving

A proposed ordinance favoring Daylight Saving which was to be taken up by the council of Chillicothe has been disapproved and vetoed by Mayor Addison P. Minshall. In a statement to the public as to why he has taken such a stand on the ordinance he says that council has no power to provide a time, other than the time fixed by the state legislature.

President Albert Scholt of Chillicothe council in a public statement says "We want a referendum on daylight saving." He says that a vote is the only proper way to settle the question and urges that the vote be taken at the August primary. Although the ordinance has been vetoed by Mayor Minshall and council will probably not attempt to pass it over the veto, there can still be a referendum, not on the ordinance but on the question "Daylight saving—Yes or 'Daylight saving—No'."

Agricultural Notes

EDITORIAL NOTE—The Times has arranged for an agricultural department in each issue of The Saturday Times. The articles will be written by an expert and we unhesitatingly advise their careful reading. They may be of great profit to you.

"Chick Coccidiosis"

Perhaps few poultrymen are familiar with the above mentioned chick disease. However, it is necessary that we acquaint ourselves, not only with the name of the disease, but its treatment as it killed millions of chicks in Ohio last spring and was as bad in many other states and it is likely to do the same thing this spring. Poultry scientists in all parts of the country have been trying out control measures. Having checked findings elsewhere with their own personal observations, poultry scientists of the Agricultural Extension Service, Ohio State university, recommend the following: Move the house to fresh ground before the chicks get the disease. It has been shown by Pickens of Cornell university that the organism causing the trouble develops a spore that can live in the soil for three or more years. Lime the farmers old friend, is the best known disinfectant. Keep the floor of the poultry house covered with lime and lime the ground around the house. Coccidiosis attacks birds between four and ten weeks old. The symptoms are droopiness, drooping wings, and in most cases diarrhea. When it appears cut off all hard feed and feed the regular mash mixed with milk. Get the chicks onto fresh ground and fill the drinking fountains with a solution of triple sulphur carbide, thirty grains to a quart of water. This may be given once a week until the disease clears up. In extreme cases the tablets may be given twice the first week.

Bloom Township Heard From
J. E. Gabler, Secretary of the Bloom Township Farm Bureau reports things booming in Farm Bureau work in his Township. The following report has been received recently at the Farm Bureau Office: President Wiley Burton called a meeting on April 18th for a discussion of the road proposition and to receive reports from the project leaders. C. T. Holman was appointed to head a "Good Roads Committee" with authority to select two associates who are to work in conjunction with the county and road officials. The following are reports made by the various project leaders: C. T. Holman who heads the potato production work reports that he has his three men who are to grow one acre of potatoes each for a demonstration of the community. They will demonstrate the value of proper fertilizing and spraying. Rev. S. E. Elsen is putting out two acres of strawberries which is to serve as a demonstration for the community that strawberries are profitable in Bloom Township. Rev. Elsen has had extensive experience in growing strawberries and says he can plant and care for strawberries as well as preach.

John F. Gabler leader for pasture improvement work, reports all three of his plots sown and fertilized as recommended by Soil Specialist E. E. Barnes, Ohio State university. The plots will be covered with limestone the week of May 8th. These plots are in different parts of the township and are to serve as a demonstration that by proper fertilizing the hillsides of Bloom township will produce pasture equal to the bluegrass sections of Kentucky.

Professor N. E. Potts who is leader for the organization of Parent-Teachers Association reported one meeting held and well attended. C. C. Potts, poultry leader, reports that he has culled fifteen flocks of the twenty which was the aim for Bloom township. Owners of all the flocks culled are well pleased with his work.

several other demonstrations throughout the township in the near future. Boys' and Girls' Club Work
A meeting will be held of the Minford Pig Club at Sunshine Grange hall Monday evening, April 24th, 7:30 p. m. for the purpose of reorganizing the club. This club at present holds the Pig Club trophy cup won at the county fair last year. Mr. G. A. Shumway, leader of the club, says that he and the boys are planning on winning this cup three straight years as they want to be the proud permanent owner of it. The ruling is that when any club in the county wins the cup three times it then becomes the property of the club; until this time, it is passed about from year to year to the winning club. A great many other clubs being organized in the county say that the Minford club will not win the cup this year. At a recent meeting at Union Township, J. A. Spradlin was selected as club leader and he says they may not have the largest club in the county they are going to score high. John Waddell of Wakefield assisted by Professor Drubot of Lucasville are now reorganizing the Lucasville pig club which they say will be real contenders for the cup this year. Mr. Waddell will be the club leader.

Banquet Closes Bridge Celebration

FRONTON, Apr. 22—In celebration of the happy fruition of their plans for a bridge across the Ohio here, the citizens of Fronton and their visitors completed the dedication of the Fronton-Russell bridge with a banquet at the Hotel Marting last evening which taxed the capacity of the house.

E. J. Merrill, president of both the Bridge Company and the Chamber of Commerce, acted as toastmaster and wound up his strenuous activities for the completion of the bridge in a fitting and capable manner.

Speakers of the evening included Judge Thomas of Portsmouth, Governor Morgan of West Virginia, General Frank T. Hines, H. A. Wagner, President Wisconsin Bridge & Iron Co., U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis and W. S. Taylor, Supt. of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co.

General Hines who had charge of the transportation of American soldiers to France during the war, spoke upon request on the difficulties encountered and gave a very interesting talk on the system used in putting the men across which proved successful beyond expectation.

Mr. Wagner spoke interestingly of the detail work and engineering skill necessary to construct a bridge of this kind. He expressed the warmest appreciation of the treatment given his company here and particularly mentioned the courtesy, integrity and fairness with which his officers were always treated by Mr. Merrill, Mr. Adams and the other bridge directors during the time they were constructing the bridge.

The toastmaster read many telegrams of congratulation, expressing regret at being unable to attend, from prominent men all over the country.

Y. M. C. A. Drive Opens Monday

A program of music, vaudeville, speeches and other features will be given at the Railway Y. M. C. A. Monday evening at 7:30, which will mark the opening of the annual membership drive, which has been held every year for a number of years.

The campaign last year was very much handicapped by the depressed condition of business on the railroad, but at the present time business is heavy, and a very successful drive is anticipated.

The teams will be divided into "Boys" and "Girls." Captain C. P. Conrad will lead the former and Captain H. H. Fultz will be responsible for the latter. Both men are hard fighters, and the contest will rage until the closing moment, which will be midnight, May 1st.

Blue Devil is quite different. From "Cousins" of his kind. He works and works and works. And still remains refined.

Co-Operative Buying Discussed At District Farm Bureau Meet

Various problems in common with different farm bureaus in this district, comprised of Scioto, Pike, Lawrence and Jackson counties were taken up and methods discussed for solving them at the district conference of farm agents and farm bureau officers held here Friday with Governor C. Evans of Jackson presiding.

Co-operative buying was one of the most important questions taken up at the meeting. The prevailing sentiment showed that there were only a few standard products which were of the nature to make it profitable to buy in this manner. For other articles, individual buying was regarded as having its advantages over the wholesale method of purchase. The road problem was also discussed at length by the members present and the general sentiment was that the farm bureau should at all times do everything in its power to secure good roads.

Representatives present from Jackson county reported a county wide dairy organization in active existence and accomplishing a great deal of good. By means of this organization the farmers dispose of their milk and butter to one creamery. Members of the local farm bureau discussed the establishment of such an organization in Scioto county.

Discounting the Count

A COUNT used to be a man in charge of a count of 500 persons to whom he was a sort of overlord. This is not true today because of altered political conditions. We still have Counts, but the Count business has changed somewhat.

Business, of all kinds, has undergone something of a revolution. It was not so many years ago that pack peddlers were the sole distributors and transporters of many of the household articles of the day. Their legs set the limits for most distribution problems in those days.

Modern transportation, progressive sales methods — and advertising — have broken the shackles of time. They make a speedy job of what used to take years. Through advertising many an article has been introduced simultaneously in stores all over the country. Advertising today is the method used by business to tell you why you should have certain goods and how to identify these goods. The advertisements you find here are a truthful catalog of needed merchandise.

Articles of all kinds and for all purposes are presented in a pleasant way through the medium of type and picture. The outstanding requirements of every member of the family are met by offers of good merchandise of proved value.

Use the advertisements for guidance and you will be a constant gainer.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, April 22.—The final session of the week in the stock market began with a continuance of the strong advance. Stocks were the strongest features. Gulf States, St. Louis, and Republic were rising one point or more. Oil also was very strong, especially Standard Oil of California and Royal Dutch. Standard, which led yesterday's market, rose a fraction at the outset to the new high record of 124 1/2. Orders were conspicuous among the higher calls, which also included Chicago and Northwestern and Minneapolis. Notably American Telephone and Brooklyn Union Gas, were substantially higher with chemicals and other accessories.

Today's broad dealings in the stock market almost entirely at higher levels, centered in equipments, independent stocks, motors, oils, and utilities. High grade rails were in little demand, but junior transportation stocks were active and strong. Pullman,

Chicago Grain And Provisions

CHICAGO, April 22.—Liverpool cables were disappointing to the trade here today and as a result there was little activity at the start of the wheat market. Traders on both sides were inclined to go slow and the market held comparatively within narrow limits. While there was little change in the sentiment on account of the sharp advance of late, there has been no aggressive selling and on the breaks fair support has developed. Considerable opening up for over Sunday is expected. The opening, which ranged from 1/2c lower to 1 1/2c higher, with May 1 1/4@1 1/2c and July 1 1/2@1 1/2c, however, around these figures for a time and then advanced.

Trading in corn and oats was comparatively light and moved in sympathy with wheat. After corn had started unchanged to 1/2c lower, with 4 1/2@4 1/2c to 4 1/2c, a rally set in and moderate gains followed, this started unchanged to 1/2c lower, July 40 1/2c to 40 1/2c, then advanced slightly. Provisions were firmer with the advance in hogs.

The Kansas crop report, which later was construed as bearish, induced some buying and the market under practically no pressure, was easily influenced, prices advancing sharply. The close was strong, with prices ranging 1/2c to 2 1/2c higher, with May 1 1/4@1 1/2c and July 1 1/2@1 1/2c.

At the finish, prices ranged 1/2c to 1 1/2c higher, with July 65 1/2@65 1/2c.

Water Damage

At noon on Thursday as Mrs. J. C. Poore opened her front door to enter her home on South street she stepped into water and found that the house was almost flooded from an overflow of water from an open faucet, causing immense damage to the first floor and partial damage to the second floor and the basement. Three rooms are completely destroyed as to ceilings, walls, floors, rugs and furniture. Mr. and Mrs. Poore had been away from home the night previous and the water is supposed to have been running from the evening before and all night until discovered at noon. No estimate has yet been made of the loss.

Small Fire

A good crowd attended the Tramp Social at the Methodist church on Thursday evening and had an enjoyable time. Going first to the church each one received an empty bag, and then started on their "tramp" going first to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Nina, on Portsmouth street, second to that of Mr. and Mrs. Lintier Wedd, on Broad street and back to that of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Mape on Portsmouth street. Following back to the church they were given hot coffee and spent the rest of the evening in having a good time.

On Wednesday evening the whole church had a good fellowship meeting and reception into the new members taken on Thursday evening. The Ladies' Calendar met at the church. All three were well attended and profitable gatherings.

WAVERLY

A parked house greeted the first showing of the Woman's Welding at the Methodist Church Thursday night. The play was a great success. From the time the punch girls entered the hall until the ceremony was over there was not a dull moment.

There were pretty girls and costumes to look at, comedians to laugh at, and national characters correctly portrayed. To dull up playing the roles of women, is no small task, but Miss Symphon, the directress, used the knowledge freely and the result was a knockout. All the comies were funny. Roswell Sauters as Charlie Chaplin scoring the biggest hit. Frosty Moore as the colored man was a scream, as also was Kelly Durham and Harry Leoney playing the Irish couple direct from the "ould soil." John Jones was the old maid and got a hand when he sang "All By Myself." Dr. Presider had a good make-up as Annie Laurie and insisted on warbling the song of the same name, much to the disgust of the lad like brothers, played by John C. Foster and Ray Watkins.

William Hill was the country cousin and looked it. Buster Smith was Sis Hopkins all over. Rev. Fisher was the aged grandfather and it looked like crinoids for him when he tried to mount the platform, but his bunch of grandchildren gallantly held the old man up. The more sober parts were just as good. Florence Rader and Dr. Johnson were President and Mrs. Harding, respectively, and they really showed marked resemblance. Of course, they had to shake hands with every one when they mounted the platform.

Any one that can shake hands as high as Dr. Johnson ought to be a first baseman. As the lengthy father and mother Carl Penn and John Davis had the dignity and everything. Levi Moore as Thomas Edison, showed a startling resemblance to the noted inventor. Jake Slaven was Jay Gould and the town seems too small for him today. Frank Devers and Louis Schaeffer ought to get a dinner for their clever portrayal of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford. Ex-President Wilson was well played by James W. Logan and Harold Reisinger just looked like the ex-president's beautiful wife. In fact every one played their parts so well, it is useless to name them all.

A few of the other pretty girls were Steve Valley, Tom McLain, Sidney Keeble, Ronald Guth, George Emmott, Pete Andy, Evelyn Sigismund and Richard Dougherty. Roll over as the village school marm, rendered a beautiful song, as also did Steve Valley. C. G. Sheldon was a dapper groom and remained in seclusion until the last minute to surprise the audience. Clarence Valley made a beautiful bride, but it is said he does not desire to play the part again.

That's the way with the star actors—they are so temperamental.

HAMDEN

Mrs. John T. Ogier, Jr., entertained with a dinner party honoring her husband's birthday on Easter. COACH YOST PLANNING TO RETIRE

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 22.—Fielding H. Yost, for years leader of the University of Michigan football squad and athletic director of the university, is considering retiring from active management of the eleven, possibly at the close of next season.

"As soon as I can organize my department so that I am confident the football team will receive proper coaching, then I will step out and gladly," the coach said.

Ruth Hits Only Fair In Spring

Unless Judge Landis relents, Babe Ruth will not do any more hitting against major league pitching until May 20.

Ruth had just begun to hit the ball in a style when the season opened. There is much doubt as to whether or not he will be able to hold his condition, due to an enforced absence of five weeks from actual competition.

Ruth played in all 14 games between the Yankees and the Brooklyn

Dodgers on the spring training trip. He fell just below the 300 mark, compiling a .258 total off the Brooklyn pitchers.

Ruth was at bat 47 times and made 13 hits, eight of them for extra bases. His record was four home runs, one triple, three doubles and six singles.

The fact that Ruth made only four homers disappointed a lot of the minor league fans who turned out in large numbers everywhere.

Danforth Has Usual Debut

Dave Danforth, who is expected to make the Browns a strong pennant contender if he delivers, made his major league debut against Chicago by pitching one of his characteristic games.

St. Louis won, 4 to 2. Danforth allowed only seven hits, but he was wild, giving nine bases on balls. However, when he got the ball over he was very effective, striking out seven men.

The victory must have been very pleasing to Danforth as it was the Chicago club that sent him to the minors.

Knowing his habit of being wild the Chicago club waited Danforth out to the limit. This, coupled with the fact that he was probably nervous and over-anxious, no doubt had a tendency to throw him off his stride.

Danforth has a wicked fast ball that is hard to hit, opposing players constantly accuse him of doctoring the ball to get the break on the fast one.

Winners Clash Tonight

Tonight, on the Selby Bowling League, the season will be decided when the Messengers meet the Sluggers. The Sluggers were first half winners and the Messengers second half victors. They meet tonight to decide the season's championship in A League.

Whichever team wins tonight will meet the Turners, the season's winners in the B League, next week for the factory championship. The Sluggers have Bauer, Reichenbach and Piggy Buttrum on their team and the Messengers will have to roll big scores tonight to win the title.

New York Teams Leading

NEW YORK, April 22.—New York's champion ball teams today were on the top of the heap in their respective circuits. The Giants yesterday won their sixth straight game, trouncing Brooklyn again, although out-gunned by their rivals.

The Yankees, with Job Shaver's right arm working to perfection, squeezed a 1-0 victory from Washington, an error letting in the lone tally.

Cleveland found itself in a tie for the lead with the Yankees when Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers shook their being jinx and slugged out a 15 to 7 thrashing.

The White Sox came from behind to the St. Louis in the ninth and smashed out six more runs in the tenth to clinch the contest.

The Cubs still are within a half game of the Giants, leading on Rixey yesterday for seven runs in the eighth and burying Cincinnati. The Boston Braves celebrated the opening of their home season by trimming the Phillies.

Two new leaders in the select swarming circle appear today. Harry Heilmann, of the Tigers, coming to the fore in the American, while Timmer, of Pittsburgh, is on top in the National race.

More Money Needed For Canal Surveys

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Ohio congressmen have asked Senate appropriations committee to increase army appropriation Bill to permit surveys of suggested routes for Ohio river-Lake Erie canal.

Spring Practice At Delaware

DELAWARE, April 22.—Four excellent players of material for other places on the line and half a backfield, have shown to excellent advantage during Ohio Wesleyan's spring football practice that Coach George Gardner will terminate offensively today with a tournament of seven events. Some of last fall's reserves have come fast but the greater part of the satisfactory work has been done by men just finishing their freshman year.

Don Essex, freshman from Chere, has not been the star player of the lot but he has made great strides. He entered Wesleyan last fall as the quarterback of his Carey high school class but knew little of the spring game. He turned to it this spring and has come very fast, being counted on now as a possible regular for next fall.

Wesleyan's last eleven was in need of ends. The four under cover were not as good as Matthews, Ridge, Farn, Brown, Griswold, Campbell, Delaware, O. H. Hunt, Elyria and Ralph DeLant, Bay City, Michigan.

Bay City is the home of a promising tackle, Harold Ammon. Miles Dunn, Cleveland and Wesley Wolf, Canton, are guards who drilled best the spring.

Harley R. Criss, Toledo, has done well as a halfback. Particular attention has been paid to a pair of centers, Harry Shaffer, Fostoria, and Joe Morrissey, London.

LEFT EARFUL

He can and took a healthy jump to clear the hurdle bar. And now his shins are black and blue. He cleared it not by far.

NATIONAL RIXEY WEAKEN

CHICAGO, April 22.—Rixey of Cincinnati weakened in the seventh inning Friday after losing Chicago to two hits and was driven from the mound after being pounded for a single, a home run by Hank Miller and doubles by Krug and O'Farrell.

Cincinnati who replaced him, walked two men and Kelleher followed with a triple, which gave the locals the game. Score was 8 to 3.

FIRST VICTORY

DETROIT, April 22.—Detroit scored its first victory of the season Friday, defeating Cleveland 15 to 7, in a wild hitting contest. The Indians pitchers were ineffective throughout, while starter, the Oklahoma City recruit, performed creditably for the Tigers after the first inning. Wambagans was spiked by Blue in the first inning and retired from the game.

ASSOCIATION COLONEL WIN

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 22.—Louisville batted three Milwaukee pitchers hard, winning the second game of the series 11 to 3. After Clark was knocked out, Manager Clark of Milwaukee used Dietrich and Kimping, two recruits who reported for duty this morning. Dietrich and Delaham, recently catcher with Louisville, has been farmed out to Knoxville in the Appalachian League. He will play first base.

TWO IN ROW

INDIANAPOLIS, April 22.—Indianapolis made it two straight from Kansas City by defeating the Blues 13 to 7 Friday. In the first two innings the locals gathered ten of their fourteen hits, scoring twelve runs off pitchers Morris and Boyd.

Indianapolis 100 010 005—13 14 2

On the other hand, the Messengers were out to win the title and they lost no time in running up the scores that turned the trick. They took a good lead in the first game with the Tackers totaling only 700, Dec Reier and Fritz falling way down. Then in the second game the Messengers wanted to clinch things and they piled up a score of 905 almost a hundred more runs than their opponents.

This gave them a lead that would be hard for any team to overcome and they took things easy in the last game. It was a good thing the Messengers had a lead for the Tackers staged a comeback in the third game and made back the margin lost in the second game but could not overcome first game lead.

Captain Marple shot for the score of 258 in his last game and Sikis came through with 232, the winners Prosch was high man, gathering a total of 600 for the three games.

WORKING OLD TRICKS

EITHER the fools are not all dead, or there is thoroughly conceived and operating propaganda about the Genoa conference.

The nations met there, professedly to restore economic soundness to the world are getting no aid and comfort, either outside or inside, in so far as the news sent to the United States is concerned.

According to that news crises are arising every hour of the day and the conference is in continuous panic. No matter how insignificant the matter arises for consideration the delegates immediately are reported at loggerheads and the proceedings halting in confusion.

As a matter of fact, no such situation can exist. The master minds of the conference know what they want and there is no doubt that they have agreed beforehand on what they are going to get. They are not novices in statesmanship and international affairs, they bear many of the scars won on the field of diplomacy. They have never lost their nerves in the face of the gravest and most pressing perils. It is not possible to stampede them with phantoms, nor with things remote. Indeed, it is altogether impossible.

The one thing evident is that some combination is trying to work the conference to an end that does not now appear and having control of the news end is using it as a propaganda. Wherefore the news itself is valueless, except as showing there is some powerful undercurrent in operation.

A QUESTION SATISFACTORILY ANSWERED

THE question is frequently and often with sneering spirit put: What is the Bureau of Community Service doing?

Those who honestly want an answer can find it in the monthly report of the work of the Bureau, printed in Tuesday's Times. It is an answer too that will be a comfort to every heart that pulsates with sympathy with human want and misery; an answer not to be measured by dollars and cents, but in the help and solace it brought to those who know least of these.

Near a hundred families, in dire distress were relieved, as many suffering from illness were nursed and relieved. Scores of poor, miserable children were cared for. An unfortunate widow was saved her home, the ill and helpless were tended and sent on the journey well and glad. Girls on the road to waywardness were rescued. Homes were found for the homeless. Age and youth were provided with recreation.

I was hungry and ye fed me; I was sick and ye ministered unto me; I was naked and ye clothed me; I was in misery and ye comforted me.

If none of these things are worth the while and the cost; if you would have no helping hand stretched out unto the unfortunate and the afflicted give no support to the Bureau of Community Service—knock it without rhyme or reason.

A CHOICE OF VICTIMS

ONE objection to prohibition, as administered by the appointed, is make fish of some and fowl of others.

There is a case that has become a sort of state affair in its notoriety, that of Lorain. There has been much elaboration in the daily press reports and the director of public safety has demanded sight of the charges filed against him with Governor Davis, but that official refuses with the notification that he is keeping an eye on Lorain.

But why Lorain in particular? There are a hundred towns in Ohio quite as bad; aye, a hundred worse. For instance, what about Cleveland? What about Toledo? What about Youngstown? What about Cincinnati? Returning travelers say there is no more difficulty or secrecy in getting a drink in the latter place than there was before prohibition was enacted. That may be drawing a strong bow, but that the cheering bowl still passes freely down there is not to be denied. And who ever heard of any official being called on the carpet for not enforcing the constitution and the law of laws?

Or any other big city, anywhere, for that matter.

Nothing so amusing, if you look at it the right way, was politics. Here is a G. O. P., like the small boy retorting: "You a nuther", shouting Vic Donahy is the Democratic machine candidate for governor. There isn't any fact more palpable than the would be Democratic bosses and leaders are running around in circles, trying to get some one to run against Vic for the nomination.

They are learning over at Washington what this profound expounder of economics has always been driving home—you can't cut down the cost of government by budgets and estimates, not even when trying to keep political pledges. The only way is to cut down expenses. Hence the deficiency bills that are flooding into congress.

Living by the rippling waters is all right, but the fellows way back in the timber don't have to listen all day and half the night to the shriek and moan of a steam siren that is supposedly perpetrating music.

Forty-eight Democrats voted for the larger navy bill, which just shows some fellows never miss an opportunity to make fools of themselves.

If we get by this frigid spell and some others that surely are hanging back in the offing, we'll tell you the fruit crop is safe.

D. Work on which is expected to start Bridges and E. P. Pieper on Chillicothe within a few days, and it will be the street, between Thirteenth and Trusht to early completion.

Thrown From Horse; Badly Hurt

When the horse he was riding frightened, Will Stevens, 302 Second street, was thrown violently from the animal Friday and painfully injured in falling from his mount. Mr. Stevens landed on his head and was knocked unconscious for a time and besides suffered an injury to his right arm, resulting from the animal stepping on it.

The accident occurred at Second station, near Wakefield, about four o'clock Friday afternoon and the injured man was brought to his home here in an automobile and was later attended by Dr. H. H. Morgan.

MOSES FLEES TO MIDIAN

MOSES was grown. He found an Egyptian smiting a Hebrew, one of his brethren. He slew the Egyptian and hid him in the sand. He saw two Hebrews fighting and told them they did wrong. They asked: "Who made thee ruler over us?" They knew he had killed an Egyptian. Pharaoh heard and tried to kill Moses, who fled to Midian. He sat down by the well. Seven sisters came to draw water for their flocks. Moses helped them. When they told Jethro, their father, he sent for Moses and gave him Zipporah, his daughter. They had a son named Gershon.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 22.—That last dying gasp from Russia has whiffed a wild new blaze into the midnight supper clubs. The Russian regie has set the town by the ears. White light nights demand a change of pace. The South Sea craze has spent its force and the coca-buttered maids are back on the theatrical agency benches.

Just as Gilda Gray shimmied her gelatinous way into popularity, gave night life its first Polynesian touch, so has she given the Russian fad its greatest impetus. She is the super-attraction at the most intimate of the supper clubs.

It closed for a few nights and bloomed again in fantastic Russian, Cubist dress. And the creme de la creme of New York's gayest spenders were grouped about the 50 tables that surround the postage stamp dance floor. Poor stricken Russia would not have recognized herself. No sir!

A miniature ballet to the plaintive notes of a Balalaika orchestra—a sort of Moscow Mandolin Club led by the unfinest clown in captivity. And Gilda led the dancers in peasant dress unfolding a peasant love affair that had to do with a lover who hung himself in a well, was revived and cracked his heels joyously.

Abraham Mitre Ribbany is a Syrian philosopher who frequents the coffee shops in the Syrian quarter. He has been in America for 50 years, but he still finds our language complex. He was having a little theological dispute with a minister the other evening and meant to say "We are brethren in Christ." What he said was, "We are brothers by Jesus."

Chorus girls put in their time during stage waits these days making drawn colored handkerchiefs. It is a fad that surpasses the popularity of war time knitting. Along Broadway the girls gather in groups and soon they take out their handkerchiefs, go to work over them and gossip about the scandals of the day.

Broadway has a perverted sense of humor. A giant old sandwich man encased turtle-like in his flapping sign was moving southward. On the sign was a painted target saying that so-and-so's restaurant hit the bulls-eye. As he passed a fruit stand a group of curbstone jokers hurled fruit at the target. And the old man in his haste fell down subway stairs and was carried to the hospital with a fractured skull.

Doc Koko's KOLUM

A Flower Shop

Imprisoned springtime in a city square.

I would release you from this glassy tomb. From hours that lay hot lips upon your bloom.

From loveless hands, the idler's passing stare That you once more, free as the hills might share

The secrets of the grass, or hear when sunsets loom

The thrushes singing, watch the lifting gloom

Break with the dawn and bring the morning fair.

Yet doubt is mine—such freedom would not be

As sweet as death with noble service done—

To blow through arid lives June's fragrant breath.

And touch with hope a fading memory.

To woo with beauty's word a heart unwon.

And in still folded hands to conquer death!

WHEN A FELLER NEEDS A FRIEND — BY BRIGGS

Copyright, 1922, N. Y. Tribune Inc.

In a Department Store
She was a rather elderly woman of dusky hue, of the kind who looks upon all members of the white race in a friendly, confidential way. And she was arrayed in deepest mourning.

"Honey," she addressed the young woman clerk, "is you got any black underwear?"

"No, ammie," replied the salesgirl, "but I have some nice white ones. Would they do?"

"No honey," replied the woman with just a touch of sorrow. "No, they won't do. When I mourns I mourns clean down to de skin."—El Paso Times.

Stunning Retort
When the woman motorist was called upon to stop she asked indignantly, "What do you want with me?"

"You were travelling at forty miles an hour," answered the police officer. "Forty miles an hour? Why, I haven't miles an hour," said the woman.

"Go ahead," said the officer. "That's a new one to me."—Exchange.

A Riddle
A childie. What can the answer be? Come, Tommy, Jim and Eddie. Who took the rat from Fritzly? And put the rat in staidly? —From Judge.

Not Friendly
"Uncle, what did that mule try to do to you?"

"I don't know, boss," said the old negro, who was feeling himself all over to find out where he was hurt; "but de mule dat mule listed his heels I know he warnt tryin' to do me no favor."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Mac—No, Sandy. The Macgregors write an' invited me to their place an' I'd like to have gone, but they forgot to enclose a stamped envelope for reply.—Passing Show, London.
